Presentation to Gen. Brisbin by the 125th U. S. Colored Infantry--Speeches on the Occasion.

On Wednesday the officers and soldiers of the 125th U. S. colored infantry presented Gen. Brisbin with a beautiful service of silver, in token of their appreciation. The presentation, on behalf of the regiment, was made by Colonel Armstrong, who accompanied the costly gift with a neat speech, as follows:

Gen. BRISBIN: In behalf of the officers and men of my regiment, I present to you this token of their high regard. By this act we mean to signify more especially our profound sense of the nobility and heroic constancy with which you have labored, since opportunity was first offered, to free strength and lift up a despised and degraded race. This is the labor, this the steadiest deed this country and the guilty grandeur of goodness, with which we honor, and which wins us from a tribute that is more than admiration. It is to be expected that in the besotted society around us, the smaller and meaner sort of men will wag their heads in impudent derision, and point their fingers of scorn at your success; but they are powerless to harm you or this cause. For the right at last begins to be the mightiest might in this improving world, and the sword of justice becomes the scepter of empire, and her ministers are greater than Kings.

We have already done, General, in behalf of an abject and unhappy race, is the solid cornerstone and fair beginning of a true fame. We would have you build on as you have commenced. The fates are kind, and much remains to be done. The fetter is broken, but the bond of dependence remains, the liberty which once enslaved is now the rancor which hates, the calumny that stabs, the malice that oppresses, defrauds and murders; to hear is to throw away all that has been gained and to subdue in the heart a spirit of victory. We trust that it will be no failure, to those who have power, to help you or this cause. For the right at last begins to be the mightiest might in this improving world, and the sword of justice becomes the scepter of empire, and her ministers are greater than Kings.

To which Gen. Brisbin replied:

Officers and Soldiers of the 125th United States Colored Infantry: Accept the beautiful and costly gift you have made me, and am glad to know it is presented more as a token of my high appreciation of the cause which I am engaged in, than of any personal relations. Ever since I began life I have opposed slavery, because I believed it to be a great social, moral and political wrong. A few years ago I expected never to live to see the hour, when in a Southern State I could ride in a coach and horses, and be safe; but that hour has come, and the future opens before you full of sunshine, prosperity and promise. The long agony is over, the manacles have dropped from your wrists, and you to-day stand regenerated, like the irresistible force of universal gravitation. And now in your new condition as free people it will require all your patience, prudence and judgment, that the first steps be made in the right way and in the right direction. I regret to see that the black people do not yet understand the true meaning of freedom and independence of this lower age, but we are persued that they will not forget you General--no, nor even the lowliest of your fellow-laborers whose name may haply reach those shores.

Under the war-making power the military authorities of the United States have abolished slavery, and have caused it to abide by law and faithfully support all laws and proclamations which have been made during the existing rebellion, with reference to the emancipation of slaves' rights you, in good faith, to abolish slavery in your State, and the Constitution of the United States, or the Constitution of the South Carolina.

"The express terms upon which your demands have been issued, stipulate that you shall never again own or employ slave labor. It is likewise altogether probable that the proposed amendment to the Federal Constitution, abolishing slavery in the District of Columbia, will be adopted by three-fourths of the States, and become a part of the Constitution.

"It is impossible for South Carolina ever to regain her civil rights and be restored to the Union till she voluntarily abolished slavery, and had the confidence of the people of the South.

HARPER'S MONTHLY for October.—The October number of this popular series is rich in interesting reading matter and pictorial illustrations. It opens with "Down in the Cinnabon Mines," an instructive account of a visit to New Almaden in 1865.
"Sherman's Great March," is the subject of another article, containing liberal quotations
from Maj. Nichol's "Diary." Bearegard's Chief of Staff, Jordan, contributes a paper on the character and abilities of Jefferson Davis. "The only man as beautiful as a woman" turns out to be "Fighting Joe Hooker" in a readable sketch of the great General. "Our Mutual Friend" is continued, and the shorter articles are well selected. Civil & Calvert supply the Mag-
